TOWN OF CAREFREE FEATURES SAND SCULPTING IN DESERT GARDENS BY WORLD RENOWNED ARTIST RAY VILLAFANE

CAREFREE, Ariz., (May 18, 2016) – The Town of Carefree welcomes world renowned artist and sculptor, Ray Villafane, to create art like no other “live” within the Carefree Desert Gardens through May 25, 2016. Admission is free, and the display will be preserved and on display through August. Based upon the overwhelming success and attendance of the “Enchanted Pumpkin Garden” this past October, the Town of Carefree unanimously voted to have Ray back for seasonal town events through 2016/17.

The Town currently has a time lapse video set-up in the Sanderson Lincoln Pavilion capturing his detailed work on a nine foot life-size elephant playing chess with a field mouse. Ray will preserve the 25 tons of silt with a process of spraying a solution of water and glue on the entire sculptor to protect it from the elements so that it will last through the end of August.

Ray’s first sculptor was completed in late April in the west side of the Carefree Desert Gardens and is around 15-tons and was created out of washed river silt. The silt is very fine and allows for Ray to achieve great detail with this sculpting. This is smaller than most of his works as he has created larger-than-life sand sculptures for attractions in Russia, Italy, Puerto Rico and New York.

Ray’s been on the global scene for 10 years carving sand and says, “I love Carefree and its beautiful Desert Garden, it’s a playground and inspiration for me and appreciate the Town allowing me to be a part of it.” Later in the season, starting May 15, Ray will attempt a 20 ton sculpture that will be on display in the center of the Sanderson Lincoln Pavilion within the Desert Gardens through August.

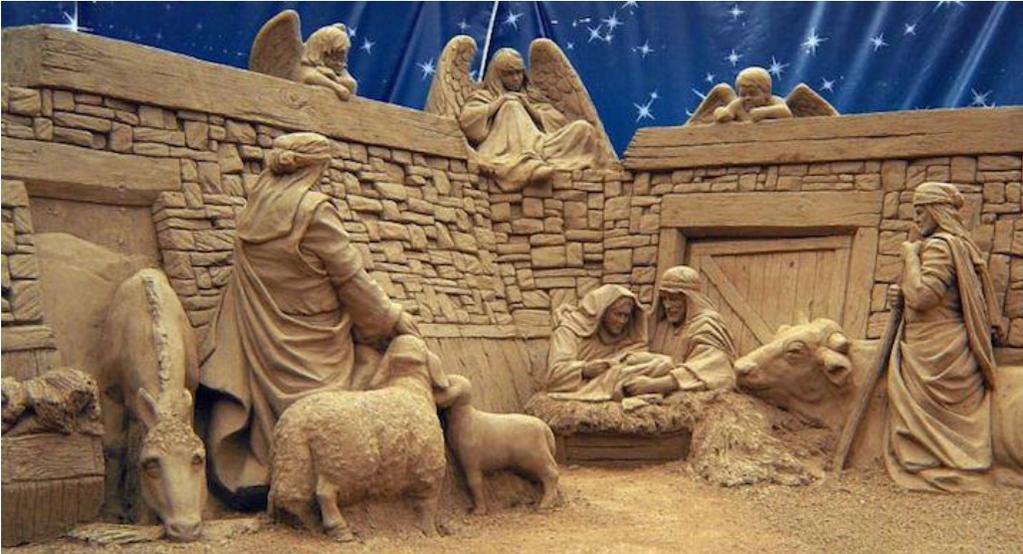

Based in Arizona, Ray Villafane is an internationally acclaimed American sculptor who has traveled throughout the globe fashioning exceptional figures and scenes out of pumpkins, sand and snow. He recently has taken up rock balancing which is also on display in Carefree.

Villafane has been called, “The Michelangelo of pumpkin carving,” by Martha Stewart, carved for the President at the White House, and has appeared on numerous national TV programs as well as holding two World Guinness Book of Records for carving the largest pumpkins in the world. He’s also known for his Food Network’s Pumpkin Challenges, which he won in 2008, 2009, and 2010.

One of Ray's first sculptors in 2008 was for the annual sand sculpting project in the town of Jeselo, Italy in the province of Venice called the "Nativity Scene". Soon invited back due to his overwhelming following to sculpt Dante's Inferno.
